

Saturday 7 June 2014, 10am to 1pm
Duchesne Building, Ground Floor, Digby Stuart Campus

The NCRCL invites you to an exciting summer event for MA/PG Dip and PhD students past, present and future.

- Tea, Coffee and Conversation – meeting the NCRCL team.
- Adèle Geras discusses her work as the best-selling author of over ninety books for children and young adults, including dark retellings of fairy-tales in the Happy Ever After trilogy.
- Presentations from NCRCL Staff about research and teaching interests.
- Book launches – recent publications from the NCRCL team.
- Research Talk by Beth Rodgers (Aberystwyth University) on ‘Competing girlhoods: constructing the ‘girls of today’ in late Victorian girls’ periodicals’.

Please join us if you are interested in the work of the NCRCL, or if you are thinking of applying to the MA/PGDip in Children’s Literature, or undertaking doctoral research with us. Current students and alumni are also welcome.

There is no charge for the open day, but you will need to book a place for catering purposes. In order to book please contact Julia Noyce: julia.noyce@roehampton.ac.uk
